

20 – 22 May 2010
Manly Pacific Hotel, Sydney, Australia

PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION QUIZ

A series of mini-quizzes will be provided that can be used to jog your memory on the sessions from the conference, but, more importantly, once carried out and filed with your other paperwork, these pages can be used to help cover the professional education requirements of both the AIA and BDA.

Attendance at the Revit Technology Conference 2010 can be counted as a component of your Continuing Professional Education requirement. One point for every hour of involvement applies to Formal and Informal CPD Activity.

To count a session as informal, simply record your attendance under the informal category of your CPE records. To count a session as formal, you must fill in the questionnaire supplied for each session (attached), and file your answers and required notes under the formal category of your CPE records.

AIA

For further information on how to record your attendance at the Revit Technology Conference 2010 through AIA, please visit the NSW Architect's Registration Board Website at:
www.architects.nsw.gov.au/

ICE

For further information on how to record your attendance at the Revit Technology Conference 2010 through ICE please visit the Engineer's Australia Website at:
www.engineersaustralia.org.au/ieaust//quicklinks/pdp.cfm

BDA

NSW Branch

Activity D – Professionals Seminars OR Activity J - Industry Specific Training
Members can claim 3 points per day, to a maximum of 9 points for a Conference.

For further information on how to record your attendance at the Revit Technology Conference 2010 through BDA, please visit the Building Designers Association's website at www.bdansw.com.au/.

VIC Branch

Members will be awarded 12 points for attending the full 3 day Conference. A Single day will be awarded 5 points.

For further information on how to record your attendance at the Revit Technology Conference 2010 through BDA, please visit the Building Designers Association's website at www.bdav.org.au